

Teacher

Véronique Paquette
Kenroy Elementary in Wenatchee, WA

“As soon as you ask the question “why,” that makes you a scientist, which means anyone can be one if they want to be.”

#ShelsSTEM

Véronique Paquette has been an educator and science advocate for 33 years. In addition to teaching kindergarten and second grade, she has worked with the Northwest Educational Service District (ESD) and NASA to train other teachers on how to incorporate science in their classrooms. Véronique currently teaches second grade in Wenatchee, Washington.

FUN FACT: Véronique worked at the U.S. Space and Rocket Center as a staff member in the Summer to focus on teacher education programs.

