“I fell in love with the way that wine blends math and science with creativity and craftsmanship.”

As a college freshman, Mari Rossi took a winemaking course and fell in love with viticulture. Since then, her trade has taken her around the globe: from Walla Walla to Napa to New Zealand to Woodinville, where she now works as the Assistant Winemaker at DeLille Cellars.

Although the wine industry is sometimes considered a boy's club, Mari is part of a majority-female team!
